

LIFE

through the eyes of

HOMELESSNESS

Our Auburn community is full of compelling stories, creative spirits, and unique perspectives. But not everyone has a chance to have their stories told, or their creativity appreciated.

The Auburn Library and the City of Auburn have provided art supplies and a space for disadvantaged community members to come and create a painting or drawing; we also have provided disposable cameras for creating photography.

The now completed works of art will be considered for a temporary art installation in the library, with a public show on Wednesday June 8th at the Auburn Library.
